GLOBAL HERIZONS ANNOUNCES 2019 CALL FOR APPLICATIONS

Ottawa, Ontario, Friday March 1, 2019— Canadian women are changing the world for the better everyday. But for women who have grown up outside of our urban centres, it can be difficult to get access to opportunities, navigate contexts and build key relationships to translate their ambitions into global impact.

Global HERizons believes in the power of all women to change the world, and provides young women from rural Canada with the opportunity to receive a modest financial contribution to their academic or career ambitions, accompanied with expert mentorship support to help build bridges between local and global impact.

Building off our successful first year of investment in three impressive women from rural Canada, we are launching our 2019 Call for Proposals, seeking applications passionate young women from rural Canada who are seeking support for their globally-minded academic, volunteer or social enterprise project. More information on process and eligibility is available on the Global HERizons website at <https://globalherizons.ca/for-applicants/>. The deadline for proposals is April 30, 2019.

By accompanying our financial support with guidance, insight and perspective from some of Canada's successful female leaders and changemakers, we hope to provide a springboard for women who may not have the personal networks and connections to the national and global spaces, but who have the essential knowledge, skills and passion that the world needs to tackle some of the most pressing issues facing the planet and its people.

Global HERizons is a Canadian not-for-profit organization that provides financial and mentorship support to young women in rural Canada who want to create positive social change at the national and global levels.
